KIWIS IN EXCITING CHINESE VENTURE

Des Friedrich (left) and Robbie Hewetson have been employed to help with the racing management of a state-of-the-art racecourse at Hohhot, the capital of Inner Mongolia.

A couple of New Zealanders are at the coalface helping develop an exciting new venture in China.

Des Friedrich, who has a wealth of Australasian experience in thoroughbred administration, and Robbie Hewetson, a former assistant trainer, have been employed to help with the racing management of a state-of-the-art racecourse at Hohhot, the capital of Inner Mongolia.

Friedrich, who has been appointed the CEO of Racing, and Hewetson, the Senior Racing Steward, arrived at Hohhot on May 8 and the venue was officially opened with the China Inner Mongolia Horse Racing and the 6th Inner Mongolia International Equestrian Festival on June 29.

"It truly is a world-class facility and it really impressed everyone," Hewetson said.

"It's a brand new track which has been built within the last couple of years.

"There's a 2200m grass track, a sand track of 1750m and it's a lot like Sha Tin. It's the same profile and there's stabling for 348 horses at this stage.

KIWIS IN EXCITING CHINESE VENTURE

The Inner Mongolia Racecourse is located in the north suburb of Hohhot and has the largest scale in Asia, covering an area of 320,000 square metres.

It is a combined venture under the name Mengxing Rider by an Inner Mongolian Government company, which owns 51 percent, and Mr Lin Lang, the Inner Mongolia Rider Horse principal known as "Mr Wolf," whose company has the other 49 percent.

The development of horse racing is also a convenient way to keep alive the heritage of horses and related culture among the Mongolian ethnic group, which used to rely on the animal for transport and survival, Lang said.

With stints as Secretary of the Egmont Racing Club and Counties Racing Club and chief executive of Hawke's Bay Racing and the same roles in Australia at Darwin and Alice Springs, Friedrich was looking to ease into semi-retirement when the opportunity arose to help steer the Hohhot ship.

"The offer came out of the blue and it's a challenge too good to pass up," he said.

"It cost NZ$250 million to set up and the infrastructure is unbelievable.

"As well as the racecourse, there is a horse arena alongside a function centre. Truly, it has everything."

The six-story grandstand also caters for accommodation with approximately 100 hotel rooms and the racetrack has already proved a winner.

"The horses broke 58 seconds for 1000m on the sand. That's how good it is," Hewetson said.

"I'm impressed by the class of thoroughbreds up here. There are some very well-bred types who would be good enough to be in Hong Kong.

"There are some high-priced yearling purchases racing up here. The breeding of many of them is as good as you get."

The racecourse has been built to cater for all breeds of horses and, of the thoroughbreds, Friedrich said close to 95 percent of them are New Zealand-bred.

Though racing officially began for the weekend of June 29-30, the next racemeeting is not until August 3 and racing will then be held each Saturday and Sunday through to early October.

"We've just had an equine festival, which is a bit like the Olympic Games over here. It's huge and was a big success," Hewetson said.

"When we have our own racemeetings, the Saturday is for thoroughbreds and the Sunday for standardbreds, homebreds and other horses. There are six races each day with a maximum of 14 runners per race."

A rating system has been created along with a simplified Rules of Racing and the prizemoney has been set for the major races.

"The Group One races will be run for the New Zealand equivalent of $225,000 and the Group Twos for $110,000," Hewetson said.

"All the horses have to be registered to come here. It's a professional operation and has the potential to be huge."

Hewetson's experience within the thoroughbred industry includes running Mike Moroney's satellite stable at Randwick as well as stints working for Paul O'Sullivan and Singapore trainer Mark Walker.

"I was originally coming to Hohhot to take up a training position when I was asked to be a Steward instead," he said. It's something new and a great experience for me. Being here from the start I can see how big this can become.

"As it grows there will be more demand for horses. The wealthy Chinese businessmen will be buying more to be involved."

SATELLITE STABLE PLANS FOR PIKE STILL UP IN THE AIR

Group One performer Endless Drama will spearhead Cambridge trainer Tony Pike's Hastings Spring Carnival team (Trish Dunell)

Despite constant speculation over the past few months, Cambridge trainer Tony Pike is adamant he is no closer to confirming whether he will establish a satellite stable in Australia next season or not.

Pike admits the buzz around the venture has ramped up in recent weeks but while he is considering his options, nothing has been put in place as yet.

"I've been questioned about the situation a fair bit in the last three months but at this stage there is nothing to report," Pike said.

"It is an option we have been thinking about for a wee while but, to be honest, I haven't even looked at any potential properties yet.

"To make the move you need the right set-up and until we find a property that is suitable it is all just wishful thinking.

"I guess if we were going to go anywhere it would ideally be in New South Wales somewhere but Queensland could also be a possibility.

"At this stage I'm just concentrating on getting our spring team ready for the new season."

SATELLITE STABLE PLANS FOR PIKE STILL UP IN THE AIR

Drama (Lope De Vega) will spearhead Pike's team for the Hawke's Bay Spring carnival, with the rising eight-year-old entire holding nominations for both the Gr.1 Tarzino Trophy (1400m) and Gr.1 Windsor Park Plate (1600m).

"He (Endless Drama) has come back from his Queensland campaign in great order and looks ideally suited to those races at Hastings," Pike said.

"He had a week in the paddock in Queensland after the Stradbroke and then another week off when we got him back home.

"He's a big gross horse who we couldn't afford to give too much of a break and he has been working along slowly since he has been back in the stable.

"He will kick-off in the Foxbridge Plate (Gr.2 1200m) at Te Rapa and then go to the Tarzino from there."

While Pike's dual Group One winning sprinter Bostonian (NZ) (Jimmy Choux) will miss the Hastings carnival in favour of either a Melbourne or Sydney spring campaign, he is looking forward to the prospects of two of his talented rising three-year-old fillies in Loire (NZ) (Redoute's Choice) and Kali (NZ) (Darci Brahma) as they prepare for a tilt at some of the early spring classics.

"Bostonian won't be going to Hastings as we favour taking him to Australia instead," he said.

"We are just working on whether he will go to either Melbourne or Sydney at the moment.

"We have some lovely young horses coming through including both Loire and Kali who impressed towards the end of the season.

"They will both trial at Te Teko on August 6 and then we will assess where they are at from there.

"The 1000 Guineas (Gr.1 1600m) at Riccarton is the main aim for both of them and they will take a similar path to get there.

"There are some nice races at Hastings during the spring carnival for them including the Gold Trail Stakes (Gr.3 1200m) so that will be the initial focus."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Nothing set in stone for Brutal in spring

A campaign for Gr.1 Doncaster Mile (1600m) winner Brutal (NZ) (O'Reilly) has yet to be finalised with The Everest (1200m) a possibility should a slot become available.

But to date the world's richest race on turf is not front of mind at Hawkes Racing.

Brutal has not raced since winning the Doncaster Mile at Randwick in April with the rising four-year-old having had just three gallops in preparation for his spring return.

Co-trainer Wayne Hawkes, who is in partnership with his father John and brother Michael, said a program was yet to be finalised.

Hawkes is not concerned there are few slots remaining for The Everest, saying things can change between now and the $14 million race at Randwick on October 19.

"Some of these horses aren't going to come up and people will be looking to change slots," Hawkes said.

"Could you set Brutal for The Everest? Yes you could.

"Could he win The Everest? Yes he could because he's a 1200-metre horse that runs out to a mile, but it depends on how he comes back."

GOBSTOPPER FARR TOO GOOD IN DRECHSLER

The Kiwis got the cash in Sunday's Brendan Drechsler Hurdle (3500m) at Racing.com Park as trainer Andrew Campbell's Gobstopper (NZ) (Tavistock) led all the way to take out the $100,000 feature.

The six-year-old, the younger brother of dual Hong Kong Horse of the year Werther, looked under siege when Euroman (Manduro) and Killarney Kid (NZ) (Pendragon) loomed up at the top of the straight but navigated the final two jumps perfectly to run out a two-length winner.

Killarney Kid faltered at the second last hurdle and was immediately pulled up by rider Steven Pateman. Initial reports suggest the Patrick Payne-trained galloper suffered no serious injuries in the incident.

Gobstopper was steered to victory by Welsh-born, New Zealand-based jockey Emily Farr, who was delighted to win a feature race in Victoria with the former Gr.3 New Zealand Cup (3200m) winner.

Farr, who was runner-up aboard Crafty Cruiser (Good Journey) in last year's Jericho Cup at Warrnambool, is the only licensed female jumps jockey in Australia.

"He did the same in the New Zealand Cup," Farr said of her front-running tactics.

"The stamina of him is just incredible and he can run 13s (13-second furlongs) all day.

"It's only his second ever hurdle start so for him to jump as well as he did those last three under pressure, it shows how good a horse he is.

"There's been a lot of work put into him so it's great to see it come off."

Some indifferent form since his New Zealand Cup triumph had seen Campbell trial Gobstopper over fences to sharpen him up but he had been reluctant to commit to a hurdle start until lining up for his initial run over fences at Te Aroha back in June, following the advice of Emily Farr.

Sunday's victory now has him two from two over the hurdles and brandishing a career record of eight wins from just 33 starts and over NZ$300,000 in stakes earnings.

JOHNSON BACK IN WINNING FORM AFTER LENGTHY INJURY BREAK

Danielle Johnson made the best possible return to raceday riding after an injury enforced nine-month break away from the track when she guided talented three-year-old Bobby Dazzler (NZ) (Zed) to victory at New Plymouth on Saturday.

Johnson has been on the sidelines since mid-November when she sustained three fractures to her collar bone in a race fall at Ruakaka. Sporting a metal plate and six screws in the troublesome injury, Johnson had built up her fitness in recent months with plenty of gym work, running and regular trackwork and trial rides.

After getting her eye in with two mounts at Pukekohe on Wednesday, Johnson was at her bustling best as she led throughout on the Stephen Marsh-trained Bobby Dazzler, who was registering his third career victory.

With the 1400m covered in a pedestrian 1.32.90 on the testing

Heavy11 surface you could have excused Johnson for feeling the effects of the effort required to kick home the Zed gelding.

“Actually, I felt pretty good afterwards even though it was a really tough track out there,” Johnson said.

Leading rider Danielle Johnson bagged her first winner following a lengthy injury break at New Plymouth on Saturday (Trish Dunell)

“It helps when you have a horse who can handle those conditions and he got through it really well.

“My fitness is good as I haven’t been sitting around at all in the last few months. I have had trial rides and do regular trackwork while I try to either get to the gym or go for a run on most days.

“It just feels great to be back and to get a winner was a big thrill.”

Despite the success, Johnson will not be able to add to her season’s tally as she heads back to the surgeon on Tuesday to have the plate and screws removed from her collarbone.

“My surgeon told me I didn’t have to have the plate and screws removed but if I had another fall it might complicate any injury I suffered, so I’m going to have them out on Tuesday,” she said.

“I will take a few days off so I won’t have any more rides this season.

“Now that I’m back I am really looking forward to riding in the new season. I don’t have any specific goals although the 100-winner mark is something I like to try and achieve in any given season.

“I’m certainly hungry for success now that I’m back and I’m just lucky to have a strong stable like Stephen’s behind me so hopefully we can kick some goals again this year.”

MORE WONDER A GENUINE GROUP ONE CONTENDER

Trainer Graeme Rogerson believes his talented galloper More Wonder (NZ) (Mossman) is ready for a break-out season in 2019/20.

The Mossman gelding won twice during his three-year-old campaign but looked unlucky not to register a victory at the highest level, finishing in the top five on four separate occasions at Group One level.

"I think he is a very good horse who didn't get a lot of luck in those bigger races," Rogerson said.

"He probably should have won a Group One but the way he is coming up for his new campaign, I think he will be able to rectify that.

"I got the feeling something wasn't quite right with him towards the end of the season and when we had him checked out, he needed a minor operation to remove a chip off a fetlock.

"He has had that cleaned up and looks a million dollars."

Rogerson, who prepares the gelding with wife Debbie and grand-daughter Bailey under their Team Rogerson banner, will adopt a patient approach with his charge as he eyes the three Group One features during the Hastings Spring carnival, which kicks off on August 31.

"We've got him nominated for all three of the Group One races at Hastings so that is what we are working towards with him," he said.

"He will most likely trial in August and then we will go from there. He won't be starting in the Foxbridge Plate (Gr.2 1200m) at Te Rapa so we will look at something else for him."

While Rogerson is looking forward to getting More Wonder back on the track, he also has high hopes for his rising two-year-old half-brother by Tavistock, who has excelled in recent jump-outs at Rogerson's Tuhikaramea property.

"I think the Tavistock half-brother to More Wonder is a very very nice horse," he said.

"We have had a couple of jump-outs at home and he has done everything right.

"He's coming along nicely so he will be one to watch when he gets to the track."

Rogerson was also thrilled to put a win on the board for jumping legend Ann Browne, when Raisafuasho (NZ) (Johar) took out the maiden steeplechase at Te Rapa on Saturday.

"It was just fantastic to get that win for Ann as she is very close to our family," Rogerson said.

"We've had a lot to do with Ann and her late husband Ken over the years so I really wanted to put that win on the board.

"He will be set for the Pakuranga Hunt Cup (4900m) in late August and then the Great Northern Steeplechase (6400m) after that.

"Steeplechasing looks to be his forte now so if we could win either of those races, that the Browne's dominated so many years, it would be a fairy-tale result." – NZ Racing Desk

REILLY EASY WHEN IT'S ON LINE

Odds-on favourite On Line (NZ) (O'Reilly) did not let his backers down after he posted a convincing win courtesy of another textbook ride from champion jockey Vlad Duric on Sunday.

The O'Reilly three-year-old was stepping up to the mile after his closing head-second in a Novice race over 1400m last Friday week.

Eased back down to Restricted Maiden company in the $75,000 Infantry 2017 Stakes (1600m), On Line vindicated trainer Michael Clements' decision to back him up within nine days with a solid three-quarter length win from Forever Win (NZ) (Ekraar).

Duxton (NZ) (Iffraaj) took third place another short head away.

Backed down to $8 favouritism, On Line clocked 1min 36.1secs for the mile on the Long Course. Raced by prominent Thai outfit Falcon Racing No 7 Stable, On Line was opening his account after coming close with two seconds at his previous three outings.

Clements was obviously delighted his little gamble has paid off, especially on an individual who had given good vibes from day one.

"We've always been wanting to get him up to the mile. Backing him up from last week was a question mark, but he's a big strong horse that I thought could take it," said the Zimbabwean-born mentor.

"At the start, he took a bit of time to get going, but once Vlad got him up and travelling, he was fine.

On Line cruises to his maiden victory at Kranji

"The mile was not really a concern, especially with the inside barrier. I thought he'd be okay."

Duric was on the other hand a little worried about barrier No 1, but once he had On Line on the bit and coasting behind leader and longshot Champagne Finale (All Too Hard), the two-time Singapore champion jockey could relax better.

Loath to be stuck behind a fading horse, Duric popped On Line off the fence at the 500m and once they straightened up, they just went whoosh hard up against the rails.

"He was in the right race, but there was a question mark on his inside gate, how I would have to navigate him early," said Duric.

"He was also backing up from last week, but he got the job done. He wanted the mile and a bit further down the road."

The Falcon Racing No 7 Stable has already pocketed around $70,000 in stakes money from his record of one win and two seconds.
